Who we are

A nationally rooted organization combining field authority with accountable headquarters support.

Tukul Africa is a women-led South Sudanese national non-governmental organization delivering locally led humanitarian, peacebuilding and sustainable development solutions.

Headquartered in Juba, Tukul Africa works through field offices, geographic focal persons, community volunteers and trusted local networks. We connect national systems and technical standards with decisions shaped by people closest to the context.

WOMEN-LED LEADERSHIP

Women shape Board, executive and programme leadership. This strengthens representation, accountability, safeguarding and programme quality.

OUR HQ-FIELD OPERATING PHILOSOPHY

Field teams lead implementation, community engagement and context-responsive decisions through geographic authority. Headquarters provides strategic leadership, policy direction, technical guidance and organizational support. This dual accountability enables timely field action while maintaining consistent programme quality, compliance, safeguarding and operational standards.

CO-DESIGN

Participatory, community-owned solutions

COMMUNICATE

Trusted channels and accessible messages

ADAPT

Feedback, evidence and learning

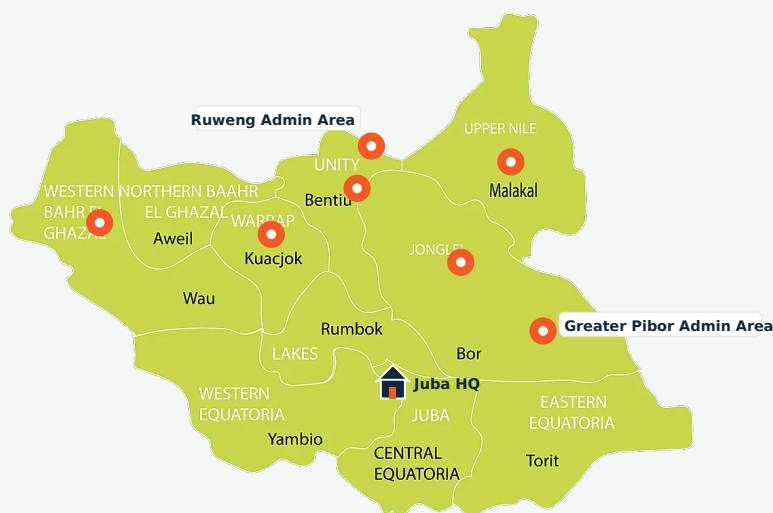

MAINSTREAMED APPROACHES

Across all five thematic areas, Tukul Africa mainstreams Social and Behaviour Change Communication (SBCC), participatory and community-owned programming, gender responsiveness, disability inclusion, conflict sensitivity, climate resilience and localization. These approaches shape how communities analyse priorities, co-design solutions, receive accessible information, influence implementation and provide feedback. They help ensure that programmes are locally led, inclusive, accountable and able to adapt as needs and evidence change.
